

The Roadmap for European CAM Research

EU wide network of researchers calls for a unified strategy for Complementary Medicine in Europe

The CAMbrella research network has for the last three years been looking into the overall situation of Complementary and Alternative Medicine (CAM) in Europe.

Via systematic literature reviews, expert meetings and consensus processes the network not only draws a coherent picture of the current status of CAM in Europe.

It will also - as part of the project's goals - present the "Roadmap for European CAM research" at the

CAMbrella Final Conference, November 29, 2012 - 9.30 am to 5 pm

Representation of the Free State of Bavaria to the European Union in Brussels

Rue Wiertz 77

Key note speakers

Prof. Dr. Jarle Aarbacke, MD, is rector of the University of Tromsø in Norway, the most northern University in Europe. Coming from clinical medicine he specialized in Pharmacology. He headed an official report on CAM in Norway in 1998 and serves as a leading representative in the Norwegian Cancer Society. His talk will focus on the contribution CAM may add to modern and patient centred healthcare in Europe.

Kurt Langbein, journalist, Austria. Kurt Langbein is very well known in the German speaking countries both for his expertise as a medical and health journalist and his film essays on topics relevant to societal developments. Being a cancer patient himself his presentation draws on his professional as well as his personal experience in being a patient and the role of CAM in his journey through the illness.

Meet the European researchers into this highly prevalent and highly controversial field of medicine and join us at the final conference!
